

Providing new opportunities for local businesses

We're sourcing licensed local suppliers to support our manufacturing facility in Ranson, West Virginia

At ROCKWOOL, we focus on building long-term relationships with our suppliers in our North American markets through mutual trust and partnership. We're now looking to do the same here in West Virginia with our 150-employee facility in Ranson.

When you think about building material manufacturing, you might picture line operators, warehouse workers, and industrial engineers, but there's so much more. Those workers are one very important part of the equation, but it takes a team of employees alongside a reliable and high-quality supplier network to ensure the operations of our manufacturing facilities.
